

CAMPAIGN UPDATE POST HEARING – 07 DECEMBER 2018

After a full day in Court, Mr Justice Ouseley has decided to defer his decision until next week.

This is not unexpected; the case raises issues of fundamental importance to the rule of law and UK democratic process, and therefore warrants further in-depth examination. It is vital that, as a society, we ensure that votes and power cannot be bought.

We remain optimistic that the Court will grant permission for a full hearing. We also maintain our firm belief that the Referendum result cannot be considered the 'will of the people'.

The Leave campaign's fraudulent behaviour has been proven by the Electoral Commission and we are continually frustrated that the Government fails to acknowledge the impact of this illegality and continues to defend its position.

The UK in EU Challenge team would like to thank our legal advisers at Croft Solicitors with our barristers Jessica Simor QC, Patrick Green QC, Pavlos Eleftheriadis, Adam Wagner and Reanne MacKenzie, as well as the wider team for their excellent work.

Importantly, we would also like to thank all our supporters, especially those who continue to contribute to the crowdfunding campaign that is enabling this action. Please keep sharing and donating to help this important cause.

We are proud to represent those who believe it's important not only to remain in the EU, but also to protect the foundations of UK democracy and the rule of law.

We will update further once we have a final decision about the case.

With thanks,

Sue Wilson on behalf of the UK in EU Challenge claimants
